Customer Operations & CRM Workflow Review

Real-world process review | Working recommendations | Public summary; organization unnamed pending publication permission

Problem

Call records showed communications activity, but the business outcome and follow-up status depended on another system. Re-entering call details manually risked duplicated work without clearer accountability.

My contribution

Reviewed representative call-handling patterns, activity reports, training guidance and available CRM processes. Drafted a conversational intake guide and a handoff approach based on urgency, documentation and next owner.

Decision

Use the communication tool for conversation history, and the CRM for business stage, agreement status and verified next action. A completed call does not by itself establish enrollment or issue resolution.

Status and boundaries

Draft recommendations only. Organization approval, access verification and production adoption are not established. This summary uses no client names, student records, recordings, internal scripts, pricing or proprietary workflows.

Jeff Pursley | https://jeffpursley-coder.github.io/ | October 2026